Experimental Verification

We have provided the required codes to verify the probability of our DL distinguishers experimentally. To specify the input/output differences, the number of rounds for DL distinguisher, as well as the number of DL queries open difflin.h and adjust the corresponding variables. Next, to compile the code and then perform the experimental evaluation, run the following commands:

make
./difflin 0